Q: Can't resolve variable named 'a' even though it's already defined I'm using the JavaScript tutorial at and I'm on "Chapter 2: JavaScript Loops". At the beginning of the code in the third to last line of the "Main", I get the error "'a' is not defined". I tried adding a var to the "a: 100;" line, but I still got the error. What am I doing wrong? A: You have a misspelling in 'a:100' Q: Get number of filled in checkboxes PHP MySQL I have a page with a form which I'm validating using isset(). If the form is empty and I click the submit button it should say: The fields are empty If I fill in one of the form inputs and click submit it should say: One of the fields is filled in If I fill in multiple form fields and click submit it should say: Multiple of the fields are filled in A few things to note: The inputs are not text inputs, its check boxes. So at first I'm checking if they are empty or not (if(!empty($_POST['inputName'])). If I have no text inputs in the form I want to use a different method which I'll make up as I go along. I have a form with many different checkboxes and I have no idea how to loop through them to check what's filled in. I am trying to check all of the checkboxes in the PHP and use count(). However, when I echo out the count, it still says 0 even though there's at least one checkbox being used. (I'm checking if there's any inputted data in the form for validation purposes) 1){ echo "Multiple of the fields are filled in";

Q: Passing an array of strings from Javascript to Delphi I'm sending a list of passwords from the client to the server in an array like this var userList = ['', '', '', '',...'']; The array is passed as a string to delphi like this var Pass = PassList.value; // Pass is a array(0) of string... When I try to convert the string like this var Pass = PassList.Text.Split(''); // Pass is an array(0) of array(0) of char... How do I convert the string into an array that is considered a string from a string array? A: You are sending a pure text string containing characters. Delphi gets the pure text part, which would include the HTML, and the angle brackets as delimiters. You are trying to interpret the text as a string array. That means they are being parsed differently. There are 2 options. I'm assuming that string is already in the string array form in the first place. 1) Convert your string to XML, and then get the array from the XML, e.g. TStringStream := TStringStream.Create; XMLStream := TStringStream.Create; XMLStream.WriteString(PassList.Text); // etc... // Note: Closing the stream is optional, but for cleanliness // and to help with debugging. // Now you have the XML, and the array can be read from XML. PASwordArr := TStringArray.Create; PASwordArr.LoadFromXML(XMLStream.Text); // etc... 2) Alternatively, let Delphi get the text that you want to capture. Split the passed string by ", and then capture the strings in the resulting array. That is: PassList.Text.Split(") This solution would be more applicable if the data came from a web form. Q: Why is my script running but not catching the data input? I'm trying to edit some javascript into one of my projects. I'm not very
