A: Use this regex: var str = "Url:3 ![url)("; var pattern = new RegExp("url\\((.*)\\)","g") var result = str.match(pattern); if(result!=null) { console.log(result[1]); } Online demo: Q: Which one of the following questions should I answer in the interview? We have an interview for an entry-level position in a company. We have to prepare for this interview. We have 2 questions to answer. Which business (either start-up, small business, medium-sized, big business, or any other business) and which business type do you think the company will be interested in you. If you have no idea about this, please answer all of them. Now I don't know which one of the following is better. Which answer should I give in the interview? a) I don't know because I don't care. b) I don't know because I don't have an opinion. c) I don't know because I don't remember. d) I don't know because I don't want to explain why. In addition, please let me know what mistakes I made in this question. A: a. Which business (either start-up, small business, medium-sized, big business, or any other business) and which business type do you think the company will be interested in you. If you don't know, don't answer. You might get you're interview cut in half for a wrong answer. You don't want to call out the other person's incomplete answer by saying "I don't know" to something you don't know. b. I don't know because I don't have an opinion We don't care, your opinion is none of our business. We prefer you to keep it to yourself for the duration of the interview. We want you to be more concerned about our business, not the other interviewee's, or the fact you don't know what they're thinking. c. I don't 1cb139a0ed
