The dictionary doesn't show such verbs. A: I thought about this issue before writing this answer, and I just found a resource that answers it. What [is] the verb "to classify"? The classifier is an atypical verb (structurally, morphologically, and semantically) as to classify is not an agent. I hope this answer will answer your question! I wrote the following code, but I get an error: syntax error List = [] for i in open('0.txt', 'r'): List = [i] for j in List: if 'x' in j: if len(List) > 0: r = len(List) - 1 print(r) else: r = 1 print(r) The text file has more than one line and one line contains 'x'. I just want to count the lines with "x". A: You are using list comprehension unnecessarily. What you need is just this (without using multiple list in your loop and also using in operator): r = len(List) - 1 if 'x' in List: print(r) else: print(r) The other one can be reduced too: print(len(List) - 1) if 'x' in List: print(len(List) - 1) 570a42141b
