Monitoring Air Quality in Metro Vancouver Vancouver, BC is a prime example of an urban centre and coastal community with hot, dry summers, from May to August. It is also one of the most expensive cities in the world to breathe air. National and provincial jurisdictions are responsible for enforcing local air quality standards, which help keep air quality in Metro Vancouver and other urban centres safe. The results of air quality monitoring can be used by these agencies to evaluate how well the local and provincial standards are being met and to inform decisions on the response to potential air quality violations. Research projects that monitor air quality in Metro Vancouver include: Monitoring of air quality standards, including CO2 and fine particulate matter Monitoring of climate change impacts, including changes in air quality Monitoring of ozone and particle pollution, especially from fireworks2018-19 MKS Lukija Prizma season The 2018-19 MKS Lukija Prizma season is the 2nd season in the history of the club.
