Next, the Fe--Al--N materials formed at the different temperatures were combined into a single matrix of the Fe--Al--N material (900 °C) by using the powder metallurgy method. The same process was used to produce the Fe--Al--N material (1200 °C). The Fe--Al--N material (1000 °C) was also made by using the Fe--Al--N powder formed at 1200 °C. The Fe--Al--N-1000 sample is porous, which may be the result of shrinkage of the material during the sintering process.
