Representatives from our community and many local businesses attended the event, which honored seniors and seniors in active military duty. The highlight of the evening was the Senior Tribute featuring our New Castle, Pennsylvania, High School All Star Soccer Team. The soccer players surprised the crowd with their talents on the field with their chosen song "Don't Stop Believing." The students, members of the New Castle Junior High School, are all Mustangs. This is the second year the Mustangs have celebrated our senior athletes in this fashion. As we continue to honor our seniors, their contributions to the school, community, and our team, we strive to raise their individual and family's appreciation for the career of the Mustangs. Hawaiian games using the stone ball. Two examples shown are "Paikai," the ball game, and "Ku," a form of football. The red-feathered ball was used by two players. (Photo by Tahu Leua, 21st century.) Hawaii is one of the most unusual places on earth for stone spheres. Hawaii is known as the birthplace of the many Polynesian cultures from the Hawaiians to the Mangareva Islanders of the Tuamotus. Of the thousands of stone balls known to exist, most are from this volcanic island, as well as the smaller islands of

Q: How to get all columns from a table in oracle I have a table with 500 columns. I need to print the values for each of these columns. I am doing this by - select * from table where 1=1; How to go further and get all the columns one by one? A: You can use select * from table, but you will get many columns. You can limit the columns with something like: select * from table where 1=1 and some_column = 'this_val' and another_column = 'another_val' and some_other_column 'some_val'; But as pointed out in the comments, if you have such a huge table, it would be much more efficient to look up the column names one by one, unless you have a specific reason.
