go to settings and check the device the device is listed and it has a green tick. I have checked the details for the hardware and the name is given as "Belkin-F5D9001A-Wireless-N150-USB-COMFAST".I have already gone through some of the threads in the askubuntu forum but most of them tell to select a device from hardware manager but mine is not there.I also tried installing from the software list and the installing says, "the driver has been installed successfully".Is there any other way to install this driver or what are the options I can do?

Best Regards A: I've seen problems installing the drivers for the Belkin_F5D9001A on the Windows 7 64-bit system, so I suggest that you install the 32-bit version. Belkin_F5D9001A WebCam Drivers If your problem occurs on the Windows 8 system, then you can install the drivers by yourself. Go to the Device Manager, then double-click on the COMFAST_USB_CAM camera. Open the properties screen (click on the camera name in Device Manager, and choose "Properties") Then click on the "Driver tab" in the properties screen. Find a suitable driver for your webcam. Click on "Update Driver..." Wait for the driver to be loaded. Click on "OK" to complete the installation. If you need other drivers, don't hesitate to ask. namespace
