Here itis, youre listening to the brilliant and ultra modern album by one of the worlds top DJs, DJ Tiësto.Q: Can i use the second row of the query to add to another in the same query? I have a query with 2 rows. One of those 2 rows (the last one) is a table. Let's say it's an for-each structure like this: SELECT id, title, text, ... FROM table WHERE id = :id FOR EACH (var IN blah blah) I can get the table as a variable using dbms_sql.varquery like this: select dbms_sql.varquery('SELECT id,title FROM table ORDER BY id'); Now I want to create some function on that table I would like to move the data that I got with the previous query on the 2nd row. For example this: select (select id,title FROM table ORDER BY id),2 AS another_row_id The function is created and i successfully execute it. But the problem is that it's giving me this error: Error report: ORA-01756: quoted string not properly terminated ORA-06512: at "SYS.DBMS_SQL", line 2823 01756. 00000 - "quoted string not properly terminated" *Cause: *Action: The query I want to get seems to work fine but I guess that the FOR EACH clause makes the function create a problem. A: Yes, you can execute two queries within one for each in the same SELECT statement. The 2nd query will be executed for each row from the first query. Example:
