NFS: Shift Autolog PC Game Trainer.Q: How do I get the processed output of ps Here's the command I'm running. ps aux | grep I would like to have ps return only the output of the processed command (in this case, 'top'). I found this documentation page that suggests I could use awk to do this, like so: ps aux | grep | awk '{print $11}' However, I'm confused about this step. The command ps returns a huge list of lines. Each line contains a process_name followed by a colon. I'm not sure how the awk command I've highlighted above goes about selecting the 11th field (the output of the top command). Does it parse each line and look for a matching string? If so

The expression of hypoxia inducible factor in osteoblast-like cells growing on different substrates. Osteoblast-like cells (OBs) are the primary bone-forming cells and the most common mesenchymal cells in bone. The cellular responses to the hypoxic environment are closely correlated to the osteoblast differentiation, formation and resorption. Osteoporosis is often caused by estrogen deficiency in postmenopausal women. HIF is a potent transcription factor in response to hypoxia. We investigated the expression of HIF-1alpha and HIF-2alpha protein in MC3T3-E1 OBs in response to O(2) deficiency. This study was aimed to clarify the molecular mechanism of osteoblast differentiation in the hypoxic condition. In the presence of 1% and 5% O(2), the expressions of HIF-1alpha and HIF-2alpha protein in OBs were significant increased compared to OBs cultured under normoxic conditions. The real time PCR analysis of HIF-1alpha and HIF-2alpha gene expression confirmed the
