In the present times, you will not be able to get mangoes. So, the price will rise,". The village head said mango varieties were abundant, and that those farmers who were not directly connected to their produce would be compensated by the government. "We have to talk about it with the farmers and government officials to decide the prices. We will also have to wait for some time," he said.Q: How to perform asynchronous operations in asp.net I'm new in asp.net and i need some basic advice. What is the difference between synchronous and asynchronous calls in asp.net? Are the asynchronous calls executed in some execution thread? How to perform asynchronous operations in asp.net If you have any example please share... Thanks. A: Asynchronous vs. Synchronous: Synchronous means that your code block is executed one at a time. For example, a button click event will execute the code in that event and then no other code will execute until the code 6d1f23a050
