In the last year, several thromboprophylactic options for medical and surgical patients have become available or have seen major improvements. New recommendations have appeared, including a revised pharmacologic guidance for major surgeries. For example, there is now the option of an oral prophylaxis in the outpatient setting. The factor VIII inhibitor bypassing agent (FEIBA) can be given to all patients undergoing invasive procedures, including those with a history of cancer. Plasminogen activator inhibitor 1 (PAI-1) levels can be used to predict the risk of thrombosis, and several options to reduce PAI-1 levels have been shown to be effective. A new anticoagulant, the direct thrombin inhibitor (DATINATE, also known as argatroban), is now licensed for use in the United Kingdom. A new oral anticoagulant, the non-vitamin K antagonist (NOAC) dabigatran, has shown excellent efficacy with a favourable side-effect profile, and is currently being evaluated in clinical trials in Europe. Many of these new options are also being tested in the prevention of venous thromboembolism in patients with cancer. The need for thromboprophylaxis, and new options for its use, continue to increase.Barendtke Barendtke (born 16 October 1958) is a Dutch politician and a former member of the House of Representatives for the Labour Party (PvdA).
