Warning: there's a third version of the 2013 Visual C++ redistributable, thearmversion which is made for Windows 8 tablets, and may be downloaded as part of an automatic update from the Windows Store. The arm version isnotcompatible with K3000. If this package is installed, make sure to uninstall it from the computers first. There is an issue with K3000's default installation path when you use a 64-bit version of SQL Server. Therefore, the default SQLSupport folder location needs to be changed. If you are using 64-bit SQL Server and for some reason you are unable to change the default installation path, you can run the following installer as a workaround:

If you have SQL Server Express 2016, make sure to delete the mssql01 folder in the SQLSupport directory (default\SQLSupport\en\[Your Edition]). SQL Server Express 2016 uses a different registry setting than SQL Server 2017, so you may need to update the registry key (You can still run SQL Server Express 2016 but the components are not functional due to the missing registry entry.) InstallAnywhere 5048 is distributed as a part of the SQLSKPAD utility. Please install InstallAnywhere 5048 on each server machine prior to installing SQLSKPAD. SQLSKPAD requires proper registration which can be done only after installing InstallAnywhere 5048. InstallAnywhere 5048 is available for download at: https://www.installanywhere.com/support_installanywhere.exe. SQL Server 2019 18.2.0.1 is installed as part of Symantec Endpoint Manager (SEPM) 14.3 RU1 and above version with SQL Server Express instance of database. The installation of SQL Server Express 2019 was stuck at 2% on Install_SqlSupport_Cpu64_Action for hours and not proceeding. 5ec8ef588b
