originally, bibleworks served the church for 26 years by providing a suite of professional tools aimed at enabling students of the word to rightly divide the word of truth. but it became increasingly apparent over the last few years that the need for our services had diminished to the point where we believed the lord would have us use our gifts in other ways. as of june 15, 2018 bibleworks ceased operation as a provider of bible software tools. we made this announcement with sadness, but also with gratitude to god and thankfulness to a multitude of faithful users who have stayed with us for a large part of their adult lives. microsoft released the creators update for windows 10 in april 2018. this new update brings improvements to windows search and the windows 10 maps service. with this update, users can search for documents, pictures, videos, and music even in files that were not created in windows 10 by using the new "search for content in files" feature. the windows 10 maps service provides new features and refined search functionality in a redesigned interface. memory: 2gb at least processor: 3ghz core i5 or better graphics: 256mb vram or more hard drive: 30gb or more operating system: windows 7 art edition 2015 x64 with last updates incl activator- 64 bit (7.1) the most common question is whether bibleworks will work on a mac. the answer is yes, it will work fine on a mac with an os that supports 64-bit programs. for all windows systems, just run the bibleworks installer. then install bibleworks by either the mac, linux or windows installation instructions.

redshift is a 3d render style that uses the gpu to render photorealistic lighting effects. the following system requirements relate specifically to this render style. mac users should use the latest macos available (non-beta). from our testing, metal drivers in old macos versions may show serious issues on certain specific video hardware; after upgrading to macos 10.15.7 the same hardware performed well and without issues. similarly, minor version updates may improve stability; graphics problems seen on certain hardware on macos 10.1 were resolved simply by upgrading to macos 10.7. for these reasons we recommend using the latest macos with your system. since metal drivers are proprietary, we cannot support their installation. apple users are recommended to use the latest macos available (non-beta). from our testing, metal drivers in old macos versions may show serious issues on certain specific video hardware; after upgrading to macos 10.15.7 the same hardware performed well and without issues. similarly, minor version updates may improve stability; graphics problems seen on certain hardware on macos 10.1 were resolved simply by upgrading to macos 10.7. for these reasons we recommend using the latest macos with your system. i know that i'm probably way behind on upgrading, but i'm still a little confused. i just bought a refurbished dell studio laptop and it came with windows 7 pro. i do not have the registration key, so i assume that i can upgrade to windows 10 free. however, i'm not sure if my current license will work on the new computer. i was hoping to use my old laptop and i know there will be no problems with my activation key. the only problem is that i can't seem to find a way to upgrade from the windows 7 pro key that came with my laptop to windows 10 pro key that will work with my new computer. any suggestions? 5ec8ef588b
