Create a random entry in a database. Keymacro was developed to speed up the routine key entries for a database. This can be done by utilizing the keyboard function of MACINTOSH or WINDOWS. Using keymacro is much easier than keyentry (mainly because keyentry has to be opened up before any key entry is done). It is also possible to use a keyboard macro like in the internet to use a function like F11 which is not in the first level of the navigation menu. Keymacro has three great features: 1. Outputs the name of the database that was selected by the user, 2. Can be used for more than one database, 3. You can have any number of key macros for any number of databases. Keymacro has features, options and can be used for any type of database. "When the order was for the first batch of 100 000 of the latest version, I did not mind ordering the next batch of 100 000.
