number of wavy wires may be larger than the number of vertical wires in an image forming device, and the number of wavy wires may be larger than the number of vertical wires in a laser printer having the above-described counter-flow system, and in this case, the same image forming method can be applied to both types of image forming apparatus. Therefore, if a multicolor image forming method, such as the tandem method, is used, the same image forming apparatus can be used for the counter-flow and the single-layer systems. According to the present invention, since the static charges applied to the front side and the rear side of the paper is prevented, the lift of the paper can be suppressed, and a sufficient image can be formed on the paper to thereby provide an image forming method for an image forming apparatus, which is capable of outputting high-quality images.
Moreover, according to the present invention, since the removal of the static charges applied to the front side and the rear side of the paper is prevented, the lift of the paper can be suppressed, and a
